Roosevelt Misrepresented.

On last Friday the Register, ever greedy for anything that will in any way slur the President, quoted with some unctious comments a supposed interview with Rev. Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Loland Stanford University, in which he is alleged to have 'Is it Bryan's or McKinley's view that is gaining among the people?"

"After all this talk, do you ask what I think?" he replied. "Let me quote you Roosevelt on that. He said to me last week: 'Jordan, I wish to God that we were out of the Philippines and had them off our hands,' and many Republicans are thinking the same. free to quote Roosevelt, because I consider him in many respects one of the greatest men of the Republican party. 'How do you size up McKinley?"

"Let me quote you Roosevelt again He said: 'McKinley has about as much backbone as a toy chocolate man that you see on the confectioner's stand; he is a dreadful disappointment."

The sequel to that story is found in an Albany, (N. Y.), dispatch, which states: "Governor Roosevelt to-day denied the statement credited to Pres ident David Starr Jordan, of the Le-land Stanford University, that he had said that President McKinley had 'about as much backbone as a tos chocolate man you see on a confectioner's stand.' The governor said:
"'I am confident that President Jor dan never made the statement in question, in the first place, because he was a guest at my house, and in the next place because the story is an absolute falsehood. No such conversation took place, and I made no such statement nor any statement that could by any possibility be twisted into it.'

"As to the published story that District Attorney Gardiner's dismissal would follow the report of Commissioner Ainsley Wilcox, the governor said:

"It is just as much a lie that Mr Wilcox and I agreed that Mr. Gardine should be dismissed as it was a lie tha I had ever said to President Jordan what I was alleged to have said about President McKinley,"
"Governor Roosevelt to-nig.t' receiv

Circulation of Money.

The "circulation statement" of the treasury bureau of statistics gives the cheering information that more money per capita, more gold, more silver and a larger total of money is in circulation than ever before. For the first time in the history of the country the per capita circulation has crossed the $26 line, and the year 1900 carried the total for the first time past the two billion dollar line, while the amount of gold and gold certificates in circulation is larger than at the corresponding date of any previous year.

"circulation statement," which is issued at the beginning of each month, shows the total money in circulation on April 1, 1900, to be $2,021,274, and on April 1, 1899, $1,927,846,942 while on the corresponding date in 1898 it was $1,756,058,645; on April 1, 1897, it was $1,669,000,694, and on April 1, 1896, $1,528,629,463. This shows an increase in total money in circulation in four years of $492,645,043, or 32 per cent.

The per capita money in circulation. or the average amount for each individual in the United States, is also lar ger than ever before, being $26 12, (calculating the present population at 77, 395,000) against $25 45 one year ago $22 69 two years ago, $23 61 three years ago, and $21 53 on April 1, 1896.

The amount of gold in circulation is also greater than at the corresponding date of any preceding year, the total gold and gold certificates in circulation on April 1, 1900, being $785,845,549, ngainst $727,748,591 on April 1, 1899, $618,-448,941 on April 1, 1898, $554,582,696 on April 1, 1897, and $489,151,505 on April 1, 1896, the increase during the four years being $296,694,044, or 60 per cent.

The amount of silver in circulation in iary sliver, sliver certificates and trens-ury notes of 1890, which were issued for the purchase of sliver bullion, and are to be retired when the sliver is coined cluding standard silver dollars, subsid-and put in circulation, amounts $631,133,689, against $626,982,894 on April 1, 1899, $610,661,729 on April 1, 1898, $569,-024,775 on April 1, 1897 and $558,524,447 on April 1, 1896.

The Business Situation.

Mr. Henry Clews, in his weekly latter reviewing the transactions of Wall street for the past week, says: "All indications point to a continued good active market for some time to The most serious impediments come. were the April settlements. These have been safely passed, and easy money is practically assured for the next three Continued demand or four months. Continued demand from out of town banks recently to retire circulation has brought the aggregate of such deposits at the sub treasury within $300,000 of the April limit. This is unusually early in the month for the $3,000,000 limit to be reached, and signifies that interior institutions see greater profit in selling their bonds at current prices than keeping out circulation on the uncertainty of having it unprofitably employed, At present there are no signs of stringency in sight, and money is as easy in the west as in the east in spite of great trade activity. As just said, this is an important factor in the stock market, for it permits numerous large speculative operations which had hith erto been held in check.

"Another consideration," says Mr. Clews, "not to be lost sight of, is the scarcity of good investments except at prices almost prohibitive to the pres ent buyer. Government bonds and gilt-edge securities are so firmly held. and at such high figures, that new buying, whether for investment or specula tive purposes, is obliged to turn to the newer issues. Hence, the preferred stocks and low-priced bonds of reor-ganized railroads and some of the industrials have been receiving increased attention. Government bonds are so high that owners are frequently tempt-ed to shift their holdings into securities that yield larger returns, and the same applies in some degree to other high class investments. Not a few shrewd capitalists are parting with fancy is sues and taking in some of the cheaper investments having a future. There is still another element that is frequently overlooked: the unusual large sum that must come on the market for investment during the next six or twelve months. Increased dividends and activity in business mean not only larger expenditures by the public and the stimulus of new enterprise, but also larger sums seeking profitable invest-

"There is still one more element to b considered, and that is the attitude of the big holders of stocks. For several months the market has been held back by the differences and skirmishes of conflicting interests. Until these wer settled co-operation among the big leaders was impossible. Recent events have cleared the financial atmosphere of some of these clouds, and harmony once more prevails, so that the heavy operators are now free to follow their convictions. These, it is almost superfinous to state, are on the bull side and there is good reason for believing that the market is now receiving strong inside support, and will continue to re-ceive it for some time to come. "For these reasons we believe in the continuance for some time ahead of a good, well sustained active market. Frequent reactions may be effected, however, causing wide fluctuations, which is an essential feature to pro longed vigorous activity; but conditions certainly favor the advancing prices and leaders evidently consider the present an opportune time to move their specialties."

A Pen Picture of McKinley.

A tremendous political advantage ac crues to the President from his listen ing feculty. Probably no man in the ing feculty. Probably no man in the white house has so few personal enemies as Mr. McKinley. His personal strength is in a lack of enemies, rather than in an abundance of friends. McKinley has none of the personal maknetism of men like Blaine or Bryan or Reed. But, while he lacks the attractive qualities of these men, he is without the repellent ones. He does not asy things which sting or wound. He does not affend a personal belief at the cost of a friend—even a casual one. He is never scatte. He is rather destitute of the faculty of humor. His smile is of the benevolent sort. He takes himself and the world seriously. Not pessimistically or solemnly, but seriously. He never could be anything but dignified. To be flippant or frivolous, even for a short time, would be impossible. His mental make-up is well advertised by his face. It is statuesque and rather heavy—Washington Correspondence in Indianapolis Nevs.

His Limitation.

"What do you want?" said the member.

"This is Smith, the janitor of the — street school, and I have made up my mind to quit my job."

"What's the trouble?"

"I am honest and I won't stand being slurred. If I find a pencil or a hand-kerchief when I am sweeping I place it on the teacher's desk. Every little wille, though, the teachers or some of the pupils, who are too cowardly to face me, give me a siur."

The M. S. B. had to get away from the 'phone to laugh. When he had recovered his composure he came back.

"Well, what made you give up your job?" he said.

"Well, last night, in big writing, on the bisckboard, I found this: 'Find the greatest common divisor,' and I said to myself, 'Both of them miserable things are lost, and I get the blame for swiping them. So I am going to quit. Good-by."

Ten Health Commandments.

The following ten rules are being quoted by English medical journals: Don't leave your rooms in the morning with an empty stomach.

2. Never expose yourself to cold air immediately after you have partaken of a warm liquid of any kind.

3. Don't leave your abode in cold

a. Don't leavy your abode in cold weather without warm wraps around your shoulders and breast.

4. Begin respiration in the cold by breathing through the nose. This will give the air a chance to get warm before reaching the lungs.

5. Never place your back near a heated oven nor against a wall, warm or cold heated oven nor against a wall, warm or cold.

6. Don't stand before an open window in a railway carriage, nor take a drive in an open carriage, after violent physical exercise.

7. Don't remain motionless in a cold room, and do not stand in an open space, on ice or snow.

8. Talk only when you must, for the old phrase, "Speech is silver, silence is gold." holds good even in hygiene.

9. Don't put off your regular bath. When the skin is not kept fresh and soft the cold draws the pores together and you are rendered susceptible to pulmonary troubles of all kinds.

10. Don't retire with cold or wet feet. Nothing prevents sleep with so much certainty as the neglect of your pedal extremities.

How One Fox Helped Another.

Cincinnati Enquirer: Joseph May baugh, a farmer who lives near Dundee, north of here, trapped a large red fox, and, carrying it home, placed it in his cornerib, until he could notify his neighbors and have a chase. The next morning the fox was gone. Investigation proved that its mate had assisted the prisoner in making its escape. The fox had worked away on the inside until it had bitten a board loose from its til it had bitten a hoard loose from its fastenings. This, however, was not sufficient to permit it to get out unless the board was lifted up. The board was held up from the outside, as the teeth marks on it show, until the prisoner crawled to liberty. Tracks of another fox were seen, and there is no doubt that the mate came after the fox inside the crib, had loosened the board and held it up. This is one of the brightest fox tricks that old hunters in the neighborhood have yet encountered.
